February 12th, 1918

Lloyd Harris, Esq.,

Imperial Munitions Board,

Munsey Building, Washington, D.C.

My dear Mr. Harris:

Professor Watson Bain was to telegraph to you last night definitely accepting the position which you asked him to take with you on the Imperial Munitions Board. I am sure that in getting Professor Watson Bain you will have a reliable and most efficient adviser on any questions dealing with industrial chemistry. He is a very sensible fellow, very level headed, and pleasant to get along with. It means a good deal for us to let him go, but the Dean and the Professor himself are of the opinion that the work can be done for the meantime by others of the staff, and it may be necessary for us after a while to get additional help. I hope that you will find that your work in Washington will prove to be satisfactory to yourself as I am sure it will also be advantageous to the Dominion.

With kind regards, I am,

Yours sincerely,

President.
